

Center for Environmental Studies Seminar Series

Treasures of the Earth: Need, Greed and a Sustainable Future

Saleem Ali

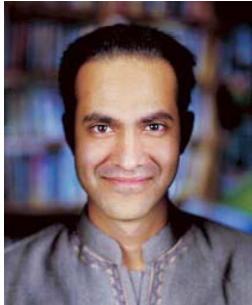

Adjunct Associate Professor, Watson Institute, Brown University

Wednesday, March 24, Noon

Brown bag lunch

Joukowsky Forum, Room 155, Watson Institute for International Studies

111 Thayer Street

Saleem H. Ali is an associate professor of environmental studies at the University of Vermont's Rubenstein School of Natural Resources and adjunct associate professor at the Watson Institute. He received his PhD in environmental planning from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, an MES in environmental law and policy from Yale University, and his BS in chemistry from Tufts University. He is the author of Mining, the Environment and Indigenous Development Conflicts (University of Arizona Press, 2003) and more recently Treasures of the Earth: Need, Greed, and a Sustainable Future, the topic of this seminar (Yale University Press, 2009). This year National Geographic has chosen Professor Ali as one of 10 "Emerging Explorers" worldwide (official announcement to be made in the June 2010 issue of National Geographic magazine), and his work was profiled in Forbes magazine last year.

For more information about Professor Ali's book, visit:

<http://yalepress.yale.edu/YupBooks/reviews.asp?isbn=9780300141610>